Summary

PhD student in Computer Vision at TU Wien, set to finish in late 2026.

I am a PhD student in Computer Vision at the CVL at TU Wien. My supervisor is Prof. Margrit Gelautz. My research is funded by the AIT Austrian Institute of Technology where I am further advised by Csaba Beleznoi.

My research lies in the intersection of classical Computer Vision, Deep Learning and Computer Graphics. The goal is to develop novel methods for highly generic object pose estimation. We are specifically interested in the geometry of objects and exploit rendering engines to generate synthetic data.

Before joining the PhD program, I received my M.Sc. and B.Sc. degrees in Mechatronics/Robotics from the UAS Technikum Wien, both with distinction.

I joined the ICBINB initiative after the NeurIPS 2022 workshop. Our aim is to foster a community beyond benchmark climbing, specifically to provide a venue for negative results as well as introspective works. I helped organize the 2023 NeurIPS and 2025 ICLR workshops with them. Together with Prof. Neil Lawrence we publish outstanding works in the Proceedings of Machine Learning Research series.
